

#177

Weekly
you drag me to support groups for remnants & ask to talk about chalkboard portraits. I told you I'm not here to stay years ago, buried behind starting lines & stupors.
You are the loveliest S.O.S. beacon, lighting up the starving ocean underneath.
There's nothing to remember about being pulled down,
just you
chaining me to non-euclidean crosses.